Key comment themes

- Some conflicting views on balance, based on different perspectives of different stakeholders
- Is proportionality adequately reflected
- Does the paper go far enough in discussing harmful conflicts of interest – particularly compensation models?
- The paper focuses on intermediaries rather than distribution. All kinds of distribution (including through digital technology) should be considered including
 - respect for a level playing field; regulations being technology neutral
 - how supervisory oversight tools vary by distribution channel

Key comment themes

- Need to monitor market outcomes; cannot rely on governance processes for fair consumer outcomes
- Limitations of disclosure to protect consumers, manage conflicts of interest
- When supervisors rely on SROs, need to be more explicit on safeguards and transparency rules that apply
- No showstoppers
- Support expressed both in general terms and for certain of the messages
