2. Themes Emerging from Input Stage

- Insurance markets are evolving quickly
- A number of emerging(ed) policy issues are impacting insurance and insurance supervision in a substantive way
- Finalisation of agreed reforms is critically important
- Supporting good supervisory practices
- Engaging with emerging markets and developing economies (EMDEs)
- Focusing on conduct and culture

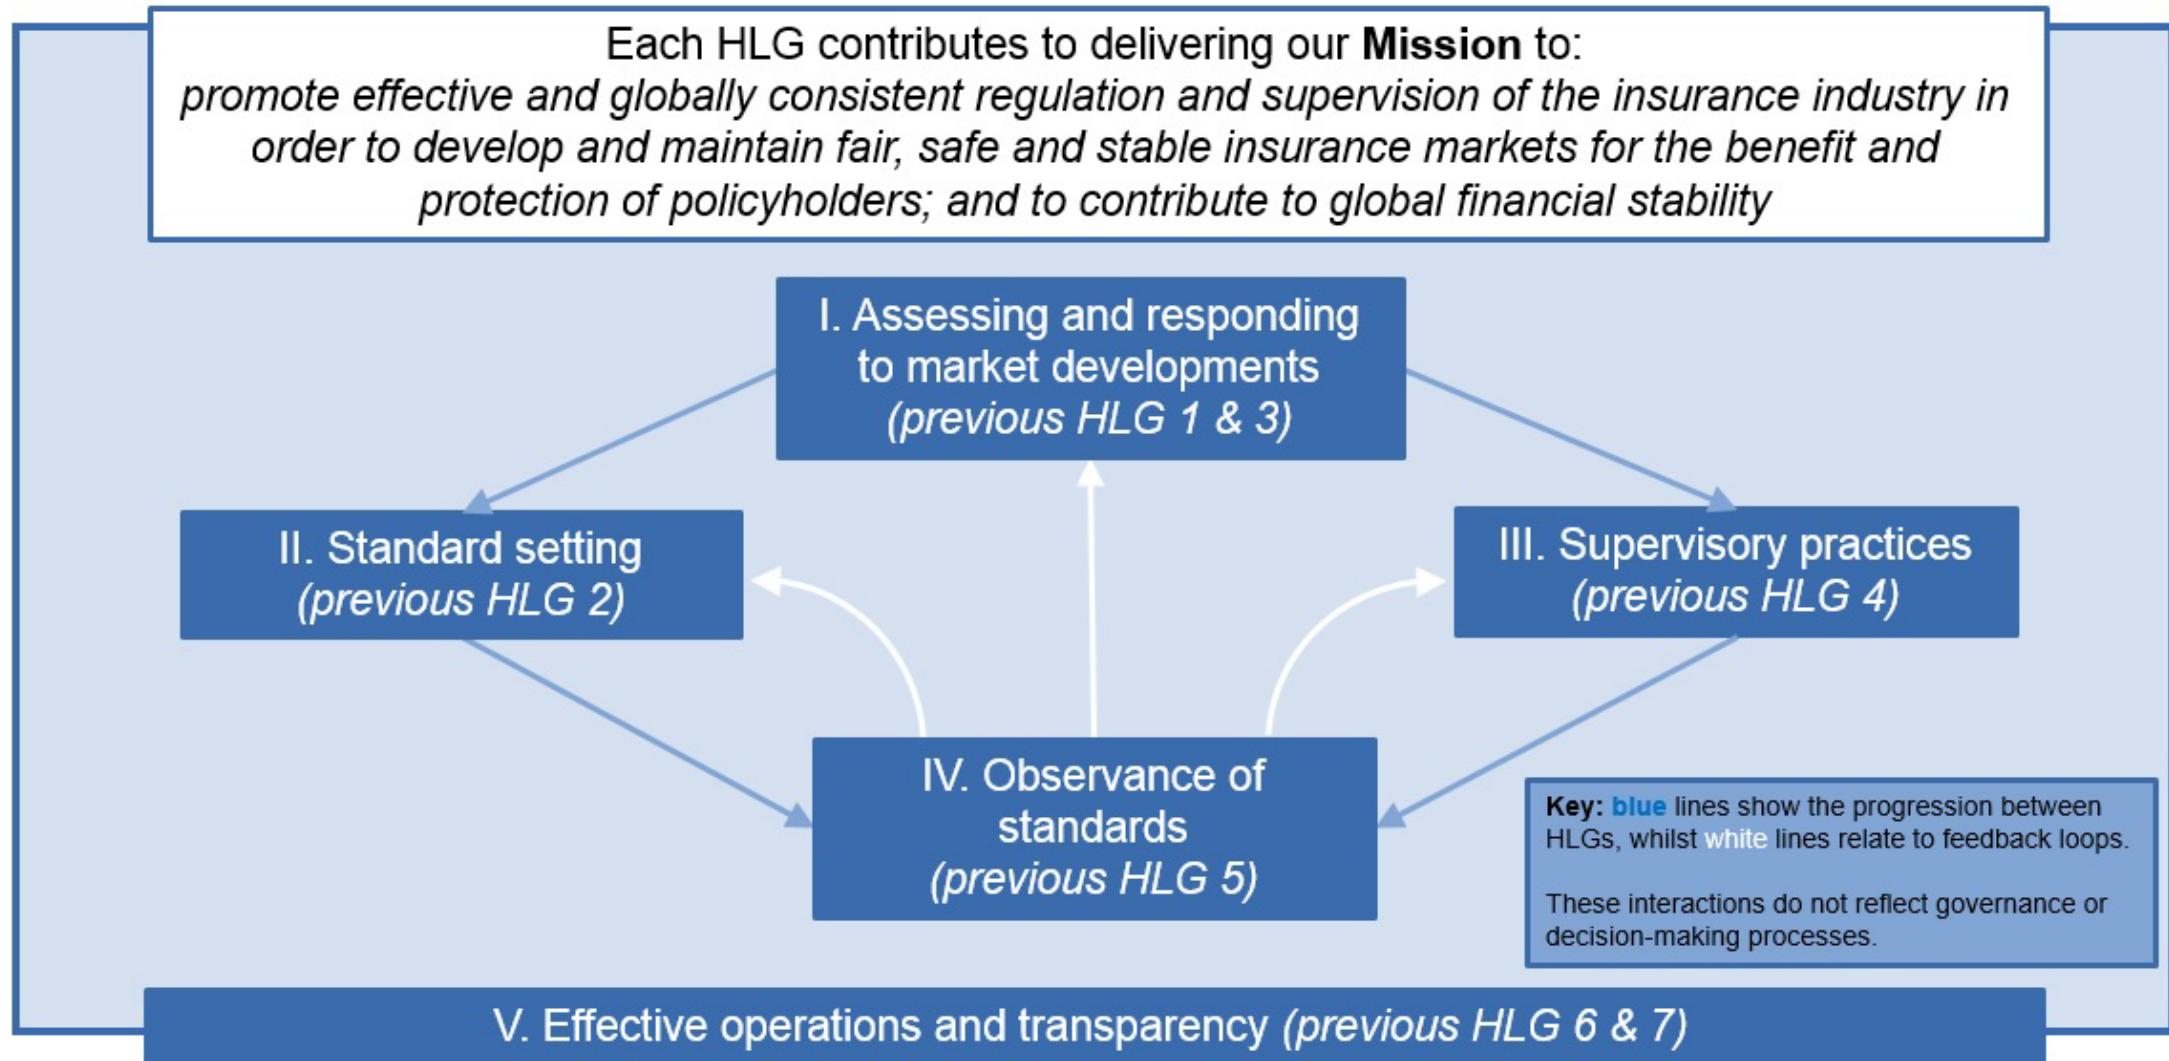

3. Key Messages

- More stability in the IAIS standards and a pivot to an increased focus on support for good supervisory practices and the implementation of agreed standards
- The finalisation of the IAIS' current commitments to the post-crisis reform agenda remains the priority, but increasingly also a focus on a range of emerging(ed) issues (eg FinTech, cyber, climate risk) that present opportunities, challenges and risks relevant to our Mission
- Capacity building is key to helping ensure supervisory systems keep pace with rapid market growth in EMDEs
- A holistic approach to prudential and market conduct supervision is called for – many risks to policyholder protection from the key trends and developments relate to the fair treatment of customers, but this in turn has financial soundness and stability implication
- Proportionate supervision can help support insurance market development and the role of insurance in resilience and sustainable economic development
- Delivery will require a change in how we work and communicate to be more agile and responsive

4. Direction of travel on next SPFO

- I. Assess global market trends and developments in, or relevant to, the insurance sector and responds to issues that present opportunities, challenges and risks relevant to our mission
- II. Set and maintain globally recognised standards for insurance supervision that are effective and proportionate
- III. Support Members by sharing good supervisory practices and facilitating understanding of supervisory issues
- IV. Assess and promote observance of IAIS supervisory material
- V. Operate effectively, efficiently and transparently in delivering our mission and in communicating with stakeholders

5. Direction of travel: strategy on a page
